THE WAR IS OVER — A HAPPY NEW YEAR

Librarians will soon again be civilians, and library work will gradually assume its normal functions, though the effect left upon it by the war will be permanent, we believe. A new and improved library service will come — more of the human sympathy, less of the strict, iron-clad red tape. The library will be known in a new light, as a community center of help in all matters of business as well as of research. It will be supported as never before by business men. Men mustered out of the service will come to the library as an old friend, remembering their camp library experiences.

Let librarians see that the needed reference helps are at hand, as well as the cordial welcome.

Files of periodicals should be completed — we can help you there. Full sets of such reviews as are notable for statistics, for history, for labor, for reconstruction, etc., should be supplied — again, let us help you find them.

Have you all the little "Useful Reference Series" of books on your shelves? Let us send you an up-to-date list to check.

How about a few "Pamfiles" to hold the often-consulted pamphlets and reports in your office?

We are at your service and wish you the best ever of New Years for 1919.

OUR FRONTISPIECE

Dr. Arthur Elmore Bostwick is librarian of the St. Louis Public Library and one of the foremost librarians of the country. He has been in library work since 1895, when he took charge of the New York Free Circulating Library. From 1899 to 1901 he was chief librarian of the Brooklyn Public Library, thence, returning to Manhattan to become chief of the circulation department of the New York Public Library, where he remained until called to St. Louis in October, 1909.

He has had a wide experience since being graduated from Yale University in 1881 (Ph.D., Yale, 1883), including a period as high school teacher and as editor of various works and periodicals. He has been editor of the science department of the Literary Digest for many years, his specialty being Physics, and is in constant demand as a speaker wherever librarians gather.

President of the A. L. A. in 1907, and president of the New York Library Association, New York Library Club, and Long Island Library Club, during his years of residence in New York. Author of "The American Public Library," "The Different West," "The Making of an American's Library."

We are glad of his permission to give our subscribers, as a frontispiece to this issue, his portrait.

LIBRARY REFERENCE LISTS

Ever since October, 1901, we have published from time to time — of late years, annually — an index to the reading lists issued by the different libraries of the country.

This feature of the Bulletin of Bibliography has been much appreciated as giving libraries an opportunity to find out readily where a given subject had been worked up. We give in this issue the "Index to Reference Lists" for 1918, compiled at the Providence Public Library, famous in the early eighties as the source of printed "monthly reference lists," and ever since a careful collector of all library bulletins and lists issued.

The effect of war is seen this year in the list under such heads as Canning, Citizenship, European War, Farming, Food Conservation, Gardening, Red Cross, Soldiers, Spies. We can still supply the cumulated reference lists, 1901–06, 32 pages, 50 cents, and the issues of the Bulletin of Bibliography containing the subsequent annual lists at 25 cents each.

NEW BOOKS BY LIBRARIANS

KOCH, THEODORE W. War Libraries and Allied Studies.

Dr. Koch has collected in book form his papers on war library service — the A. L. A. overseas work, the British war libraries, the camp and hospital libraries, the book scheme for British prisoners of war, and many others. There are also chapters here published for the first time, and such amplification of others since their printing in various places that they are essentially new.

The final pages of the book contain a most interesting account of the Library of the University of Louvain, its creation and growth, its treasures, and its complete and absolutely uncalled for destruction by the Germans on August 25, 1914 — an act which it will take centuries, probably, for the Germans to recover from. Dr. Koch's book has nearly one hundred illustrations from actual photographs, showing graphically the great work books have been doing to help win the war. These are views taken in American camps, in British Columbia, in France, in England, in German prisons — all carrying the message of the book.

The chapter on "British censorship and enemy publications" gives us a new light on the importance of careful examination of all matter, written or printed, which was being mailed.

The book is most readable and should find a ready sale both in America and England, if only it can be brought to the attention of the many who are interested in this phase of the war.

New York. G. E. Stechert & Co. 1918. 237 pages. $2.50.

OLCOTT, FRANCES J. The Book of Elves and Fairies. For story-telling and reading aloud, and for the children's own reading.

This book of fairy stories compiled or re-told by Miss Olcott will be another welcome addition to the children's rooms, and will be found a delightful book to present to children. What child does not love a fairy story! Here are tales from the Irish, Bohemian, Cornish, Chinese, Japanese, Swedish, and Scottish — over sixty in all. The illustrations are by Milo Winter. There is a subject-index at the close of the book.

Boston. Houghton, Mifflin Co. 430 pages. 1918. $2.00 net.

HUNT, CLARA W. The Little House in the Woods.

Miss Hunt was so successful in pleasing the children in her first story, "About Harriet," that she has given us another juvenile, a story of the doings of a group of children spending the summer on the Maine Coast, where the "Little House" stood. The book is prettily illustrated.

Boston. Houghton, Mifflin Co. 176 pages. 1918. $1.35 net.

TEGGART, F. J. The Processes of History.

This little book by Professor Teggart is an approach to the study of man from a scientific point of view. Examining the processes through which man has developed, he makes it apparent that history so studied throws a new light upon the characteristics of modern political organizations.

Here is an "analysis of the factors and processes manifested in the history of man." The author makes a strong plea for the "application of the method of science to the facts of History," thus leading to a furtherance of the welfare of mankind.

New Haven. Yale University Press. ix, 162 pages. 1918 Cloth. $1.25 net.

PHELPS, EDITH M., editor. University Debaters' Annual, 1917–1918.

The fifth volume of this series is now available, covering material for debates on the following timely subjects: Compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes; Government price control; League of nations to enforce peace; Federal regulation of industry; Minimum wage.

New York. H. W. Wilson Co. 1918. 276 pages. Cloth. $1.80 net.

THE DRAMA

CLARK, BARRETT H. European Theories of the Drama.

This new work by Barrett H. Clark is of great importance, being an anthology bringing together for the first time epoch-making theories and criticisms of the drama. From ancient Greece and Rome down through the middle ages to modern times, the compiler gives the text of each period — largely the prefaces to dramatic works by the foremost authors.

Italy, France, Spain, Germany, and England are covered, and there is a brief biography of each writer mentioned, as well as bibliography of his works.

A very full index is at the end of the volume. Here is a book of great reference value to libraries.

Cincinnati. 503 pages. Cloth. 1918. $3.50.

MAGAZINE NOTES

A Good Excuse is Better than None

Isn't it strange how universally the magazines are saying — "Of course we would like to continue your subscription a month or two to give you time to renew it, but Uncle Sam says we mustn't, so we reluctantly say to you 'pay at once, or we cut you off, and as paper is so scarce, we won't even print an extra copy in case your remittance should be delayed through no fault of your own.' " We can almost see the publisher chuckle in his glee at being able to make one more addition to the things he has already done to us all — odd sizes, ads among the text, less pages, more price, no title pages, and indexes, etc.

Literary Digest and Independent issued no copy for the week of November 2, 1918, owing to a printers' strike. Neither magazine thought it worth while to give a double number or double date on the November 9th issue to save themselves from a bombardment of requests now and forevermore for the omitted number. And if you order Independent for November 2, the publisher will send you November 9, thinking, poor deluded individual, that that will satisfy your needs.

Scientific American, beginning with the new volume and new year, has gone into short skirts according to fashion's behest. They are now an inch and a half shorter than her sister's the "Sci. Am. Supp." who prefers to remain becomingly old-fashioned in her dress.

News Notes of California Libraries appeared with a nice brown cover last July. We are so glad this fat little magazine has at last put on a wrapper, and thus improved its looks a lot.

Crowley's Magazine, that sprightly monthly for magazine sellers and agents, issued a September-October number (vol. 3, no. 10), and then came December (vol. 3, no. 11) cut in size to a new shape just half the former width, and resembling the Woolworth Building, so tall and narrow was it. "Readjustment is the watchword of the hour" to quote the leading editorial's title, yet not a word about the most radical change of shape ever made by a magazine.

Mechanical Engineering. With vol. 41, no. 1, January, 1919, the Journal (formerly Proceedings) of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers changed its name to Mechanical Engineering, and took over from "Industrial Management" (formerly Engineering Magazine) the department of the Engineering Index.

This will assure this Index a better standing and more authority. Mechanical Engineering is a generous $3.00 worth by the year, monthly; and the Enginering Index will also remain, they hope, at $3.00 for the bound annual volume.

Puck. We killed off Mr. Puck April 9, 1918, after he had changed from weekly to semi-monthly and then to monthly. Our authority for the death notice was Publisher's Weekly of August 24, and we always believe anything that is dated August 24, because we were born on that occasion. Now the Library of Congress doubts our record, for the good and sufficient reason that it has a Puck dated August, 1918.

Will some one please help us to give poor little Puck a correct burial!
